

REIGN OF TERROR IS AWAITED

In Sacred Capital of the Turks--Military Tribunal Declared

LAST NOTE TO MOSLEMS

Bulgaria Takes Lead and Instructs Delegates to Return Home--Ready to Resume Conflict.

Constantinople, Jan. 28.—The French reign of terror was rivaled in Constantinople today, when wholesale arrests were made among adherents to Kiamil Pasha, the deposed grand vizier, at the behest of Enver Bey, Turkey's "man of the hour."

More than 200 influential men, suspected of fomenting the counter-revolutionary plot, were jailed, and among them were the minister of the interior and the minister of instruction of the Kiamil Pasha cabinet.

A military tribunal was declared by the Young Turks, with Zekki Bey as provisional president, and Turkey was under military dictatorship. The sultan is practically powerless and Kiamil Pasha himself is under the strictest surveillance by henchmen of Enver Bey.

London, Jan. 28.—The Bulgarian peace delegates were instructed late yesterday to break off negotiations with Turkey and return to Sofia. It is reported unofficially here today that similar instructions are awaited by the Serbian, Montenegrin and Greek delegates.

All the Balkan delegates probably will leave London before the expiration of the armistice, which will be four days after the peace conference is formally broken off.

Turkey is ready to resume the war according to Enver Bey, military dictator of the Ottoman empire, who made a statement to that effect in Constantinople last night.

Enver Bey denied that Turkey had taken the initiative in the fighting along the Tchatalja lines, but added that Turkey might fight again very soon.

"We shall not hesitate to resume war if necessary," he said, "and under no conditions will Turkey recede from the standpoint that she will not conclude a dishonorable peace."

A special committee appointed by the Balkan plenipotentiaries has drafted a note notifying the Turkish plenipotentiaries that they propose to break off the peace negotiations. The note was not submitted to the Balkan delegates, which held no meeting yesterday. Instead the delegates gave a luncheon in celebration of the Saint Day of Saba, the patron of the orthodox church.

The note as drafted is very brief. It reminds the Turks that since January 6 the sittings of the peace conference have been suspended, without Turkey making any move toward their resumption, while events in Constantinople are the best proof that Turkey's answer to the demands of the allies concerning Adrianople and the Aegean Islands will be negative.

On this account, unless the Turkish delegation has fresh proposals to make, the note points out, the allies see no alternative but to break off the negotiations.

Rehad Pasha, head of the Turkish delegation, in an interview last night, said he deeply regretted the obstinacy of the allies, which, he declared was not only against Turkey, but against their own true interests. He added:

"This obstinacy is the more regrettable because while Bulgaria does not need Adrianople either for defensive or effective purposes, this town is indispensable to Turkey on account of historic, sentimental and religious associations. In fact, Turkey would be weaker from a military standpoint by possessing Adrianople than without it, as the present war proves, as a whole army is now immobilized within that fortress."

"Turkey has shown a yielding spirit toward the allies, ceding a larger area than their own countries before the war. What was the use of assembling a conference if the allies were determined to make no concessions whatever? The object of all conferences always has been to find a compromise through mutual giving way."

"If the allies had played a noble part by renouncing Adrianople Turkey might have become the friend and ally of Bulgaria, as Austria became the friend and ally of Germany after the war of 1866. By claiming Adrianople, even if Bulgaria ever gets it, there will be an insurmountable rift between the two countries and the two races. The spirit of revenge in Turkey will be stronger and deeper than that still left in France over the loss of Alsace-Lorraine 42 years ago."

If the fortress of Adrianople falls in the meantime it is expected to be-

CRIPPLING BLOW DEALT SMITH ONE PER CENT TAX LAW BY SUPREME COURT

Columbus, O., Jan. 28.—A tax levy of more than 15 mills can be made if a city needs a greater levy to raise funds to conduct business, according to a ruling of the Supreme court today.

Walter S. Stevenson, city solicitor of the village of Leipsic, brought mandamus in the name of the village to compel the budget commission of Putnam county to order levies within the corporate limits of the village aggregating 19.0117 mills for all purposes.

The Putnam county court sustained the demurrer, holding that 15 mills was the aggregate levy which could be made. The circuit court refused this ruling and the Supreme court affirmed the decision, thus giving the one per cent. tax law a rude jolt.

At the office of the attorney general it was said that a critical examination of the opinion would be made before it could be said that the vital features of the Smith law were nullified by the decision.

Assistant Attorney General Dempsey said that the decision was a severe blow to the one per cent. law.

Among the legislators, the news of the decision came as a surprise and friends of the Smith law at once began preparations for amending the law at the present session of the general assembly.

Some of the automatic solution of the problem. The Turkish delegates remarked that the Balkan allies had greatly tempered their original ardor. They now appear, according to the Turks, to trust in the outbreak of a counter revolution in Constantinople forgetting that even should it take place it will be a movement led by the military element and therefore strongly against the cession of Adrianople.

Osman Nizama Pasha, of the Turkish delegation, remarked, with a peculiar smile:

"He laughs best who laughs last."

WOMEN SMASH WINDOWS IN DUBLIN CASTLE

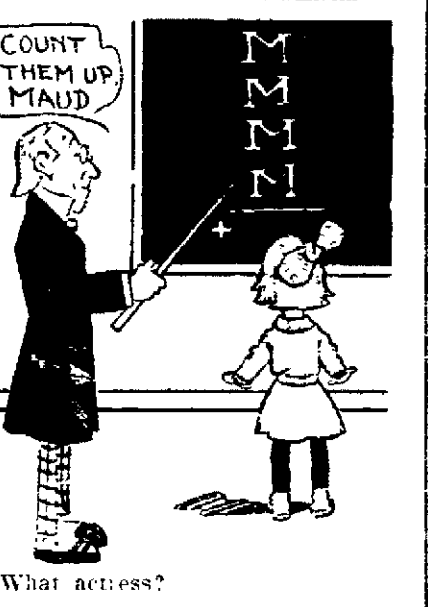

London, Jan. 28.—The suffragettes lost no time today in opening their militant campaign. In Dublin they made a concerted attack on the windows of Dublin castle, a number of which were smashed. Three suffragettes were arrested.

In London the suffragettes were very strenuous. "General" Mrs. Drummond sent an ultimatum today to David Lloyd-George, chancellor of the exchequer, after he had refused her request to receive a deputation of women on the ground that he had other engagements. She wrote, "I and the other members of the committee intend to wait upon you in the House of Commons at 8 o'clock this evening. We trust you will make the necessary arrangements to receive us."

CHICAGO UNION MAY STRIKE

Chicago, Jan. 28.—Leaders of the union Garment Workers of America in this city today continued their preparation to call a general strike if the controversy is not ended in a few days. It was said in labor circles that more than 50,000 organized workers in Chicago probably would walk out, in the event negotiations for peace now pending in the west were unsatisfactory.

PROVIDES BUREAU OF RESEARCH

Measure Was First Business Considered by Legislature Today

TEMPERANCE HEARINGS

Will Occur Tonight and Then Committee Will Get Busy and Frame Own License Bill.

Columbus, Jan. 28.—Within a few minutes after the reconvening of the legislature today the house began the consideration of the bill of Representative Black of Hamilton county, which provides for the establishment of legislative research bureau, or which Prof. S. Gale Lowrie of Cincinnati, is to be the head.

Under the provision of the bill the department will be under direction of the board of state library managers, although the department will work in conjunction with professors and students of Ohio State University.

Members of the temperance committee of the house and senate will hold their third and last debate on the liquor license laws under discussion tonight. Following tonight's meeting, the committee will hold joint private meetings to frame a middle-of-the-road license law.

House Democrats yesterday voted not to permit any probing of state departments at the instigation of Republicans.

A resolution for such investigation by a bipartisan committee, to be named by Speaker Swain, was offered by Dr. M. J. Jenkins, Republican member from Madison, but was quickly disposed of. With the Democrats voting in the affirmative and the Republicans in the negative, it was referred to the committee on fees and salaries, where it will be buried.

Representative Fulton of Licking in making the motion to shunt the resolution off the track, remarked: "I am not aware there is any need of investigating any department which is in charge of Democrats."

No further explanation was given the house, but afterward Mr. Fulton said he had a resolution of similar tenor to the Jenkins resolution in course of preparation. There is intention of probing departments manned by Democrats, but not by a bipartisan committee. The probe will be made by a committee having a Democratic majority.

The Jenkins resolution providing for ascertaining the number of hours each state employee worked, what he did, whether he did more work than he drew pay for and whether the number of employees could be lessened by combining positions. It provided for making this survey of all state departments and both branches of the legislature.

Having ordered individual towels for the use of the members last week the house yesterday was on the point of ordering individual drinking cups by voting for a resolution to that effect offered by Mr. Lustig of Cuyahoga, when it was halted by Mr. Kramer of Richland. The resolution was tabled.

"Some fool little thing like this will prejudice us in the eyes of our constituents," he said. "We went in for individual towels, and if we vote individual cups we will be charged with being a set of high-flyers. If we adopt the resolution, perhaps the public money would be used to buy silver cups. If the sanitary officer takes away our glasses, let each member buy himself a nickel tin cup."

The Black bill, establishing a legislative reference department, was made a special order and scheduled for passage at 2:30 this afternoon.

The house adopted the Frick resolution memorializing congress for a law giving the states for good roads the interest on government bonds to be deposited in banks on bid.

By a vote of 15 to 6 the joint senate and house judiciary committee today passed favorably on the Frick bill which provides that three-fourths of a jury in the Common Pleas court may return a verdict in civil cases. Several members who voted against the measure said they were willing to favor a bill allowing 10 or 11 jurors to render a verdict but were opposed to giving that power to the judiciary committee recommended for passage. Senator Frick's bill allowing three-fourths of a jury to return verdicts in civil cases in justices and municipal courts. Senator Jung's bill requiring juries to deliberate at least six hours before rendering a verdict in civil cases was voted down by the committee.

Winnipeg, Man., Jan. 28.—In a fight between a sheriff's posse and John Baran, an outlaw, at the latter's home near Riding Mountain, a woman and child were shot to death. Baran escaped.

PERSONAL ELEMENT IN ORGANIZATION.

Money is required to meet the necessary expenses of an organization like the Newark Board of Trade. But money is not the greatest factor in the success of such an organization.

The personal element is the rock upon which that success is based. How many thoroughly appreciate that element—realizing what it really means?

To have business men—competitors—meet one another upon an equal and friendly footing, and to truly feel that that friendliness is to create a condition which makes for a better city; did that ever occur to you?

It is this for which the Newark Board of Trade is laboring; not its sole object, but one of its greatest desires, and, indeed, a worthy one, breathing a spirit of honest, progressive comradeship among business men which none ought to attempt to obstruct.

Is it not a worthy object and one deserving your cordial support?

CONG. W. A. ASHBROOK KEEPS WORKING FOR HIS CONSTITUENTS

Charles L. Smith, of 38 Seventh street, has received notice from Congressman W. A. Ashbrook that an increase of pension had been granted him, dating from May 28 last. Mr. Smith will receive $24 per month and feels very grateful to the Seventeenth district's popular and hard-working congressman for the assistance which he rendered in securing the increase.

Mr. Ashbrook is never too busy to look after the claims of an old soldier, as is attested by the hundreds of pensions and increases he has secured for the old veterans in this district. He is their friend, and is staunch and true in all legislation affecting their interests. This is one reason why he is one of the most popular congressmen at Washington. He can always be found in the front ranks, valiantly fighting the old soldiers' battles in the legislative halls. The old comrades who gave their all for their country are insistent that no better man ever represented any Ohio district in congress than Mr. Ashbrook.

DEFAULTING CASHIER HAS SURRENDERED

Newark, N. J., Jan. 28.—A. L. Beavers, defaulting cashier of the First National Bank of Highbridge, N. J., who disappeared recently after confessing to a shortage of $50,000, surrendered himself to the federal authorities at Jersey City today and was brought here for arraignment.

Nick Gets Quick Retort From Witness

Washington, Jan. 28.—Representative Longworth of Ohio and Frank P. Bennett of Boston, a witness, had a lively tilt before the ways and means committee today. Mr. Longworth accused Mr. Bennett of having evaded answers and Mr. Bennett retorted that evidently Mr. Longworth's constituents "had not thought much of his services" referring to his defeat for the next congress. The hearing on wool was closed and the sundries schedule embracing a large variety of articles not otherwise provided for will be taken up tomorrow.

VETERANS FIGHT WITH CANES.

Leavenworth, Kan., Jan. 28.—A fight with canes between two 75-year-old inmates of the National Soldiers' Home Here, Joseph Guyer and Henry Frank, was the cause of Guyer's death, according to the verdict of a coroner's jury last night.

PERUVIANS GO BREADLESS WHEN BAKERS STRIKE

Lima, Peru, Jan. 28.—The Peruvian capital was today practically without bread. All the bakers in the city today joined the general strike of factory employees and other workmen which began early in January.

OLYMPIC HERO LOSES HIS HONORS

James Thorpe, Great Indian Athlete, Must Return Trophies

ADMITS TAKING MONEY

For Playing Baseball Under An Assumed Name—He Was Never Eligible.

New York, Jan. 28.—James Thorpe, the Indian athlete and Olympic champion, has admitted that the charges of professionalism brought against him were true, and has formally retired from amateur athletics. Thorpe's confession was contained in a letter to the registration committee of the Amateur Athletic Union, which met yesterday to investigate his case.

The letter admitted that Thorpe had played baseball for a salary on a professional team three years ago, while a student of the Carlisle Indian School, but that on the same team there were several Northern college men who were regarded as amateurs, and Thorpe did not realize that his participation was wrong. Thorpe added that he did not play for the money he earned, but for the love of the game.

Thorpe's winning of the pentathlon and decathlon events at the Olympic games in Stockholm and later his wonderful performance which won for him the all-around championship of the A. A. U. at Celtic Park last summer had stamped him the most marvelous all-around athlete of modern times. In addition, his prowess as a football player had earned for him last season, by unanimous choice of leading sporting writers, the position of half-back on the annual All-American football team.

All the prizes and the honors which Thorpe has gained since 1909, the date from which his standing as a professional begins, must be transferred through the officials of the Amateur Athletic Union to the men who finished second to the Indian in every event. This will mean that the trophies and points in the pentathlon and decathlon must be given respectively to F. E. Nye, Norway, and Lukeman, Canada, and that J. J. Donahue, United States, and G. Hohner, Sweden, will take second place.

Charges that Thorpe had played professional baseball in Winston-Salem, N. C., were first published in a Worcester, Mass., newspaper last week. James E. Sullivan, secretary, and other officials of the Amateur Athletic Union immediately began an investigation, which culminated in a meeting of the officials of the A. A. U. and the American Olympic committee in this city yesterday.

Prior to the meeting, Glenn S. Warner, athletic director of the Carlisle Indian school, called on Mr. Sullivan and presented him with Thorpe's confession of professionalism and a letter expressing the regret of Mr. Friedman, superintendent of the Carlisle School, that his premier athlete was guilty as charged. Thorpe's letter, dated at Carlisle, Pa., Sunday, and addressed to Mr. Sullivan, follows:

When the interview with Mr. Clancy, stating that I had played baseball on the Winston-Salem team, was shown me, I told Mr. Warner that it was not true, and, in fact, I did not play on that team. But so much has been said in the papers since then that I went to the school authorities this morning and told them just what there was in the stories.

I played baseball at Rocky Mount and at Fayetteville, N. C., in the summers of 1909 and 1910 under my own name. On the same teams I played with were several college men from the North, who were earning money by ball playing during their vacations, and who were regarded as amateurs at home. I did not play for the money there was in it, because my property brings me in enough to live on, but because I liked to play ball.

I was not wise in the ways of the world and did not realize this was wrong and it would make me a professional in track sports, although I (Continued on Page 2—Column 5.)

A Hero in a Lighthouse.

For years J. S. Donahue, So. Haven, Mich., a civil war captain, as a lighthouse keeper, averted awful wrecks, but a queer fact is, he might have been a wreck himself if Electric Bitters had not prevented. "They cured me of kidney trouble and chills," he writes. "After I had taken other so-called cures for years, without benefit, and they also improved my sight. Now, at seventy, I am feeling fine." For dyspepsia, indigestion, all stomach, liver and kidney troubles they're without equal. Try them. Only 50c at F. D. Hall's.

WOMAN COULD NOT WALK

She Was So Ill—Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Pentwater, Mich.—"A year ago I was very weak and the doctor said I had a serious displacement. I had backache and bearing down pains so bad that I could not sit in a chair or walk across the floor and I was in severe pain all the time. I felt discouraged as I had taken everything I could think of and was no better. I began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and now I am strong and healthy."—Mrs. ALICE DARLING, R.F.D. THE NERVE OF SOME PEOPLE

DISTURBED THE CHURCH SERVICES SUNDAY EVENING

Ora Pound, residing north of the city, created a disturbance at the evening service of the First Presbyterian church Sunday, making it necessary for the pastor, Rev. Calvin Hazlett, to stop the service in the midst of his discourse and announce the closing hymn.

Pound was in the audience but the service had not progressed far when he wandered aimlessly about the auditorium. He finally made his way into the choir loft where he sat and whistled. The pastor found he had lost the attention of his audience and closed the service.

Pound has been a patient at the Sanatorium. He was taken to Columbus Tuesday afternoon for treatment in a private sanatorium.

TERRIBLE ITCHING AND BURNING

Scalp Eczema for About Five Years. Form of Ringworm. Thick, Rough Scale. Entirely Well After Using Cuticura Soap and Ointment.

Meriden, Mo.—"I was troubled with scalp eczema for about five years and tried everything I heard of but all of no avail. The doctors told me I would have to have my head shaved. Being a woman I hated the idea of that.

"I was told by a friend that the Cuticura Remedies would cure me. This spring I purchased two boxes of Cuticura Ointment and one cake of Cuticura Soap. After using one box of Cuticura Ointment I considered the cure permanent, but continued to use it to make sure and used about one-half the other box. Now I am entirely well. I also used the Cuticura Soap.

"The disease began on the back of my head, taking the form of a ringworm only more severe, rising to a thick, rough scale that would come off when soaked with oil or warm water, bringing a few hairs each time, but in a few days would form again, larger each time, and spreading until the entire back of the head was covered with the scale. This was accompanied by a terrible itching and burning sensation. Now my head is completely well and my hair growing nicely." (Signed) Mrs. G. F. Clark, Mar. 25, 1912.

Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment are sold throughout the world. Liberal sample of each mailed free, with 32-p. Skin Book. Address post-card, "Cuticura, Dept. F, Boston."

A Wonderful Prodigy.

The king of prodigies died on June 27, 1730, at the age of five, after having astonished the whole world. His story is the most remarkable in human annals and is attested by evidence which has satisfied all the learned inquirers who have written about him. The infant, Christian Melnecken, was born of respectable parents in Lubek, 1721. A few hours after his birth he began a conversation, at ten months there was scarcely a subject on which he could not express an opinion, and at a year and a month he had mastered both the Old and New Testaments. He was only two and a half when he was able to answer questions concerning anything in ancient and modern history, and he was also at this time an expert geographer. He spoke Latin and French and at the age of four was speaking in the French language at the court of Denmark. All this time he was being nursed by his mother. At the age of five it became necessary for him to be weaned, and in consequence of this change of diet he died, leaving psychologists an insoluble problem.—Westminster Gazette.

INTERSTATE ORGANIZATION IS DELAYED

Steubenville, Jan. 23.—The Interstate league moguls met here yesterday, but failed to organize because of complications. The fact that Akron could not get back the franchise held by Columbus was the real cause for the failure. There will be another meeting Friday at Canton to complete organization. Charles Dawson of Zanesville was acting president and A. D. Hostetter of Canton was secretary.

Among those in attendance were: Marty Hogan, Zanesville; Paul Powers, Youngstown; C. L. Harmon, Akron; A. D. Hostetter and L. P. D. Yost, Canton; E. V. Robinson, Wheeling; T. J. O'Connor, Erie; Frank Demerter, Frank McLister and Joseph Goldstein, Steubenville.

Neither McKeesport nor Johnstown, Pa., was considered for a berth in the league. Jamestown, N. Y., wants in.

Messrs. Dawson, Yost and Hostetter form a committee to confer about the sale of the Akron franchise by Columbus back to Akron, so that patronage will be better for a home-owned team.

Harry Wright, president of the Lima club of the Ohio State League, has been in Columbus for several days and is on the trail of the parties who have been spreading a story that his team is to be marketed forthwith. He was instrumental last year in closing the deal that made the club home-owned and is not of the sort to cast aside such a sporting proposition within a year. Lima last year met every obligation promptly, and quickly rebuilt a ball park that a hurricane laid down. Contracts for the coming season have been sent to the reserved players.

Columbus baseball officials are free to admit that they do not know what will be the outcome of the effort to establish the Interstate league in the Capital City. It is hinted that the Columbus club may not want to agree to the transfer of the Akron franchise. It also developed that if Columbus remains in Akron with the club a new park will have to be established as parties have a three-year lease on the present plant in the Rubber City. Bobby Quinn, secretary of the Columbus club, has positively refused to become president of the Interstate league though the post has repeatedly been offered to him.

BUSINESS MEN WILL FINANCE HUNTINGTON CLUB

Huntington, W. Va., Jan. 23.—An enthusiastic mass-meeting of baseball fans held here last night resulted in the shelving of plans for a popular baseball company to make way for a private corporation, which is being formed. It was announced that the private company was practically completed and would soon be ready to announce its plans, which include probably entry into the Ohio State League by Huntington.

The meeting proved that baseball is not dead in Huntington and that the city will be represented with a new team this year.

Leading business men of the city, it was understood, will finance the company, and in view of this fact it was considered advisable by the fans to give them a clear field.

TROY, "COLLAR CITY," HAS LONG BEEN PROMINENT IN ORGANIZED BASEBALL

One of the most prosperous of the minor baseball organizations is the New York State League, which, after a previous precarious career, was reorganized at a meeting of the magnates held in Troy 22 years ago today, Jan. 28, 1891. Everybody knows that Troy supplies most of the collars worn by the men of America, but it will surprise many fans to learn that Troy was long a major league city on the baseball map. The Trojans were among the first to take up baseball and when the National Association of Baseball Players was organized in 1878, the Collar City was represented. The first professional team in Troy was known as the "Haymakers," and included many stars. Some historians of the game allege that the Haymakers' aggregation was the first to turn professional, although the Cincinnati Red Stockings seem to have a prior claim. Among the early games played in Troy was the famous contest between the Haymakers and the Red Stockings, in which the latter team was victorious by a score of 38 to 31. Another great contest was that in 1871 between Harvard College and the Trojans, when the professionals were humbled to the tune of 15 to 8. The famous players of the Haymakers at that time included McMullen, one of the best catchers of that day; McGary, a great catcher; York, considered the star of outfielders, and Fisher, who was untable at first base. The Haymakers were paid regular salaries, and in this were almost unique, as most of the other professional clubs shared in the gate money. When the National Association was formed in 1871, Troy was a member, as it was in 1872, but the Trojans dropped out the following year. In 1879, three years after the organization of the National League, Troy was given a franchise, the other clubs representing Boston, Providence, Syracuse, Buffalo, Chicago, Cincinnati and Cleveland. Troy remained in the major league throughout the season of 1880, although Syracuse was replaced by Worcester and continued in the circuit until the end of the 1882 season, when both Troy and Worcester were dropped, and New York and Philadelphia were admitted. That marked the finish of Collartown as a major league city, and it has since had to be content with minor league ball.

OLYMPIC HERO

learned from the other players that it would be better for me not to let anyone know I was playing, and for that reason I never told anyone at the school about it until today.

In the fall of 1911 I applied for readmission to this school and came back to continue my studies, and, of course, I wanted to get on the Olympic team and take the trip to Stockholm. I had Mr. Warner send in my application for registering in the A. A. U. after I had answered the questions and signed it, and I received my card allowing me to compete in the winter meets and other track sports.

I never realized until now what a big mistake I made by keeping it a secret about my ball playing and I am sorry I did so. I hope I will be partly excused by the fact that I was simply an Indian school boy and did not know all about such things. In fact, I did not know that I was doing wrong, because I was doing what I knew several other college men had done, except that they did not use their own names.

I have always liked sports and only played or ran races for the fun of the thing and never to earn money. I have received offers amounting to thousands of dollars since my victories last summer, but I have turned them all down because I did not care to make money from my athletic skill. I am sorry, Mr. Sullivan, to have it all spoiled this way, and I hope the Amateur Athletic Union and the people will not be too hard in judging me. Yours, JAMES THORPE.

Gloom at Carlisle.

Mr. Friedman in his letter says that neither the faculty nor the Carlisle Indian School nor Athletic Director Warner had knowledge of Thorpe's professionalism, and declares the confession he has brought gloom to the entire institution.

The committee which met to investigate the charges against Thorpe after having read the confession of the athlete, issued a statement in effect that Thorpe was selected as a member of the Olympic team without the least suspicion of his ever having been a professional. They justify in some measure Thorpe's position by saying it should be noted that he is an Indian of limited experience and education and lacking in the knowledge of other than his own people. The statement says that, while Thorpe is deserving of the severest condemnation for concealing the fact that he had played professional baseball, the committee feels that those who knew of his professional acts are deserving of still greater censure for their silence. The Amateur Athletic Union announces that it will do everything in its power to insure the return of prizes and the readjustment of points won by Thorpe and immediately will eliminate the records of the Indian from its books.

In the pentathlon at Stockholm Thorpe finished first in the running broad jump, first in the 200-meters run, first in the 1500-meters run, and third in the javelin event. In the decathlon, which consisted of the 100-meters dash, running broad jump, shot put, running high jump, 400-meter run, 110-meters hurdle, discus throw, pole vault, javelin throw and 1500-meters run, Thorpe had a percentage of 8,412.655, against 7,724.495 by Wieslander, Sweden, his nearest opponent.

James Thorpe, a Sac and Fox Indian, first was heard of several years ago as football player with the Carlisle team. Later he specialized in weight-throwing, jumping and running. He also became noted as a lacrosse and baseball player, and in the latter branch of sport several of the major league teams have tried to secure his services. Only last year it was stated that Pittsburgh and Washington endeavored to secure him, but the Indian refused to sign a contract, declaring that he wished to remain an amateur.

After the Olympic games in Sweden last year, King Gustave sent Thorpe to congratulate him on his prowess. At first the Indian timidly declined to meet the monarch, but later, when several of the American committeemen insisted that he do so, Thorpe went to the palace. There the king took the Indian by the hand and smilingly said, "You are the greatest athlete in the world."

On his return to the United States from Sweden, the president sent Thorpe a letter congratulating him on his victories in the Olympic games.

Thorpe Remains Silent.

Carlisle, Pa., Jan. 23.—When seen at the Indian school here, James Thorpe declined to make any statement concerning his admission of professionalism and retirement as an amateur athlete. He stated, however, that he "might have something to say later," and added: "I must have time to consider my future plans."

PRAISE FOR HANK FROM SPORTING GOODS SALESMAN

O. F. Merpall of Cincinnati, representing A. G. Spalding & Co., manufacturers of sporting goods, was in the city today. Mr. Merpall was present at the meeting of the Ohio State League magnates at Columbus a week ago and exploited the merits of the Spalding ball. He succeeded in getting the league magnates to adopt the ball for use in the league for a term of five years. Naturally he is much interested in the dealings of the Newark club. He was surprised to learn of the marriage of "Lefty" Gilbert, whom he numbers among his friends in the minor league. He was pleased that Lefty had caught on with the Chicago club. In discussing the probability of Charles O'Day coming to Newark as manager of the club, Mr. Merpall spoke very highly of the candidate's ability. With O'Day as manager, Mr. Merpall predicted a splendid baseball year for Newark.

WALTER EAST DICKERS WITH THE TIGER MANAGEMENT

Walter East, who managed the Mansfield club in the Ohio State League during the second half of the season of 1912, held a conference with the Tiger magnates relative to signing a contract to manage the Mansfield club during the coming season. Nothing definite was determined upon, but East will hold another conference next Sunday, when it is expected that he may sign a contract.

CHAPTER VIII.

The Purloined Cable.

George, having made his bargain with conscience relative to the Yulor rug, slept the sleep of the untroubled, of the just, of the man who had nothing in particular to get up for. In fact, after having drunk his breakfast cocoa and eaten his buttered toast, he evinced his satisfaction by turning his face away from the attracting morning light and passing off into sleep again. And thereby hangs this tale.

So much depended upon his getting his mail as it came in that morning, that Fate herself must have resisted stoutly the desire to shake him by the shoulder. Perhaps she would have done so but for the serenity of his pose and the infantile smile that lingered for a while round his lips. Fate, as with most of us, has her sentimental lapses.

The man next door, having no conscience to speak of (indeed, he had derailed her while passing his twentieth meridian!) was up betimes. He had turned in at four; at six he was strolling about the deserted lounging-room, watching the entrances. It is inconceivable how easily mail may be purloined in a large hotel. There are as many ways as points to the wind. Ryann chose the simplest. He waited for the mail-bag to be emptied upon the head-porter's counter. Nonchalantly, but deftly, while the porter looked on, the adventurer ran through the bulk. He found three letters and a cable, the latter having been received by George's bankers the day before and mailed directly to the hotel. The porter had no suspicion that a bold theft was being committed under his very eyes. Moreover, circumstances prevented his ever learning of it. Ryann stuffed the spoils into a pocket.

"If any one asks for me," he said, "say that I shall be at my banker's, the Anglo-Egyptian bank, at 10 o'clock." "Yes, sir," replied the porter, as he began to sort the rest of the mail, not forgetting to peruse the postals. Ryann went out into the street, walking rapidly into town. Mohamed, El-Gebel shook the folds of his cloak and followed. The adventurer did not slacken his gait till he reached Shepherd's hotel. Upon the steps he paused. Some English troops were marching past, on the way to the railway station; the usual number of natives were patrolling the sidewalks, dangling strings of imitation scarabs; a caravan of pack-camels, laden with cotton, shuffled by haughtily; a blind beggar sat on the curb in front, munching a piece of sugar cane. Ryann, assured that no one he knew was about, proceeded into the writing-room, wholly deserted at this early hour.

He sat down at a desk and opened the cable. It contained exactly what he expected. It was a call for advice in regard to the rental of Mr. George P. A. Jones' mansion in New York and the temporary disposing of the loose valuables. Ryann read it over a dozen times, with puckered brow, and finally balled it fiercely in his fist. Pool! He could not, at that moment, remember the most essential point in the game, the name and office of the man to whom he must this very morning send reply. Hurdled he fished out the letters; one chance in a thousand. He swore, but in relief. In the corner of one of the letters he saw that for some unknown reason the gods were still with him. Reynolds and Reynolds, estates, Broad street; he remembered. He wrote out a reply on a piece of hotel paper, intending to copy it off at the cable office. This reply covered the ground convincingly. "Renting for two months Old friends Leave things as they are. P. A." The initials were a little stroke. From some source Ryann picked up the fact that Jones' business correspondence was conducted over those two initials. He tore up the cable into small illegible squares and dropped some into one basket and some into another. Next, he addressed George's mail to Leipzig; another stroke, meaning a delay of two or three months; from the head office of his banker's there to Paris, Paris to Naples, Naples to New York. That Ryann did not open these letters was in nowise due to moral suasion; whatever they contained could be of no vital importance to him.

"Now, Horace, we shall bend the crook of our elbow in the bar-room. The reaction warrants a stimulant." An hour later the whole affair was nicely off his hands. The cable had cost him three sovereigns. But what was that? Niente, rien; nothing; a mere bagatelle. For the first time in weeks a sense of security invaded his being.

It was by now 9 o'clock; and Percival Algernon still reposed upon his bed of ease. Let him sleep. Many days were to pass ere he would again know the comfort of linen sheets, the luxury of down under his ear.

What to do? mused the rogue. On

The Porter Had No Suspicion That a Bold Theft Was Being Committed.

The morrow Mr. Jones would leave for Port Said. Ryann shook his head and with his cane beat a light tattoo against the side of his shin. Abduction was rather out of his sphere of action. And yet, the suppression of Percival was by all odds the most important move to be made. He had volunteered this service and accomplish it he must, in face of all obstacles, or pool! went the whole droll, and never it rose in his mind that he did not chuckle saturnally. It was a kind of nightmare where one hung in mid-air, one's toes just beyond the flaming dragon's jaws. The rewards would be enormous, but these he would gladly surrender for the supreme satisfaction of turning the poisoned arrow in the heart of that canting hypocrite, that smug church-deacon, the sanctimonious, the sleek, the well-fed first-born. And poor Percival Algernon, for no blame of his own, must be taken by the scruff of his neck and thrust bodily into this tangled web of scheme and under-scheme. It was infinitely humorous.

He had had a vague plan regarding Mohamed, guardian of the Holy Yhordes, but it was not possible for him to be in Cairo at this early date that he would eventually appear. Ryann never doubted. He knew the Oriental mind. Mohamed-El-Gebel would cross every barrier less effective than death. It was a serious matter to the Muslim. If he returned to the palace at Bagdad, minus the rug, it would mean free transportation to the Arabian gulf, bereft of the most important part of his excellent anatomy, his head. Some day, if he lived, Ryann intended telling the exploit to some clever chap who wrote; it would look rather well in print.

To turn Mohamed against Percival as being the instigator would be an adroit bit of work; and it would rid him of both of them. Gioconda said that she wanted no rough work. How like a woman! Here was a man's game, a desperate one; and Gioconda, not forgetting that it was her inspiration, wanted it handled with gloves! It was bare-hand work, and the sooner she was made to realize this, the better. It was no time for tuning fiddles.

Mohamed out of it, there was a certain English bar in the Quarter Rosetti, a place of dubious repute. Many derelicts drifted there in search of employment still more dubious. Dress, scum; the bottom and the top of the lettuce; outcasts, whose hand and animus were directed against society; black and brown and white men; not soldiers of fortune, like Ryann, but their camp-followers. In short, it was there (and Ryann still felt a dull shame of it) that Wallace, carrying the final instructions of the enterprise, had found him, sleeping off the effects of a shabby riot of the night before. It was there also that he had heard of the history and the worth of the Yhordes rug and the possibility of its theft. He laughed. To have gone upon an adventure like that, with nothing but the fumes of wine in his head!

For a few pieces of gold he might enroll under his shady banner three or four shining lights who would undertake the disposal of Percival. Not that he wished the young man any harm—no; but business was business, and in some way or another he must be made to vanish from the sight and presence of men for at least two months.

As for Major Callahan's unforeseen danger, the devil could look out for that.

Ryann consulted his watch, a cheap but trustworthy article, costing a dollar, not to be considered as an available asset. He would give it away later in the day; for he had decided that while he was in funds there would be wisdom in the purchase of a real gold Longines. A good watch, as every one knows, is always an easily converted into cash as a London bank note, providing, of course, one is lucky enough to possess either. Many watches had he left behind, in this place or in that; and often he had exchanged the ticket for a small bottle with a green neck. Whoever fortune had gone against him heavily at cards, there he might find his latest watch. Besides getting a new time-piece, he was strongly inclined to leave the bulk of his little fortune in the hotel safe. One never could tell.

And another good idea, he mused, as he swung the time-piece into his vest-pocket, would be to add the splendor of a small white stone to his modest scarf. There is only one well-defined precept among the sporting fraternity; when flush, buy jewelry. Not to the cause of vanity, not at all; but precious stones and gold watches constitute a kind of reserve-fund against the evil day. When one has money in the pocket the hand is quick and eager to find it. But jewelry is protected by a certain quality of caution; it is not too readily passed over bars and gaming-tables. While the pawnbroker stands between the passion and the green-baize, there's food for thought.

Having settled these questions to his satisfaction, there remained but one other, how to spend his time. It would be useless to seek the English Bar before noon. Might as well ramble through the native town and the bazaars. He might pick up some little curio to give to Fortune. So he beckoned to an idle driver, climbed into the carriage, and was driven off as if he were hung upon minutes.

Ryann never wearied of the bazaars of Cairo. They were to him no less enchanting than the circus-parades of his youth. In certain ways, they were not to be compared with those in Constantinople and Smyrna; but, on the other hand, there was more light, more charm, more color. Perhaps the magic nearness of the desert had something to do with it, the rainless skies, the ever-recurring suggestions of antiquity. His lively observation, his sense of the picturesque and the humorous, always close to the surface, gave him that singular impetus which makes man a prowler. This gift had made possible his success in old Bagdad. Some years before he had prowled through the narrow city streets, had noted the windings, the blind-alleys, and had never forgotten. Faces and localities were written indelibly upon his memory.

One rode to the bazaars, but walked through them or mounted donkeys. Ryann preferred his own legs. So did Mohamed. Once, so close did he come that he could have put his two brown hands round the infidel's throat. But, patience. Did not the Koran teach patience among the higher laws? Patience. He could not, madly as he had drenched, throttle the white liar here in the bazaars. That would not bring the Holy Yhordes to his hands. He must wait. He must plan to lure the man out at night, then to hurry him into the desert. Out into the desert, where no man might be his master. Oh, the Holy Yhordes should be his again; it was written.

The cries, the shouts, the tower of Babel reclaimed; the intermingling of the races of the world: the Englishman, the American, the German, the Italian, the Frenchman, the Greek, the Levantine, the purple-black Ethiopian, the bronze Nubian; the veiled women, the naked children; all the color-tones known to art, but predominating, that marvelous faded tint of blue, the Calene blue, in the heavens, in the waters, in the dyes.

"Make way, O my mother!" bawled a donkey-boy to the old crone peddling matches.

"Backsheesh! Backsheesh!" in the eight tones of the human voice. From the beggar, his brother, his uncle, his grandfather, his children and his children's children. "Backsheesh, backsheesh!"

"To the right!" was shrilled into Ryann's ear; and he dodged. A troop of donkeys passed, laden with tourists, unhappy, fretful, self-conscious. A water-carrier brushed against him, and he whiffed the fresh dampness of the bulging goat-skin. A woman, the long, black head-veil streaming out behind in the clutch of the monkey-like hand of a toddling child, carried a terra-cotta water-jar upon her head. The grace with which she moved, the abruptness of the color-changes, caught Ryann's roving eye and filled it with pleasure.

Dust rose and subsided, eddied and settled; beggars blind and one-eyed squatted in it, children tossed it in play, and beasts of burden shuffled through it.

The roar in front of the shops, the pressing and crowding of customers, the high cries of the merchants; the gurgle of the water-pipes, the pleasant fumes of coffee, the hardy loafers lolling before the khans or caravansaries; a veiled face at a lattice-window; the violet shadows in a doorway; the sunshine upon the soaring mosques; a true believer, rocking and mumbling over his tattered Koran; gold and silver and jewels; amber and copper and brass; embroideries and rugs and carpets; and the pest of fleas, the plague of flies, the insidious smells.

Rarely one saw the true son of the desert, the Bedouin. He disdained streets and walls, and only necessarily brought him here among the polyglot and the polygon.

Ryann found himself inspecting "the largest emerald in the world, worth twelve thousand pounds," which looked more like a fine hexagonal of onyx than a gem. It was one of the curiosities of the bazaars, however, and tourists were generally round it in force. To his experienced eye it was no more than a fine specimen of emerald quartz, worth what any fool of a collector was willing to pay for it. From this bazaar he passed on into the next, and there he saw Fortune.

And as Mohamed, always close at hand, saw the hard lines in Ryann's face soften, the cynical smile become tender, he believed he saw his way to strike.

(To Be Continued.)

IMPORTANT TO EVERYONE.

It is now contended by physicians that the kidneys should have more attention as they control the other organs to a remarkable degree and do a tremendous amount of work in removing the poisons and waste matter from the system by filtering the blood.

During the winter months especially, when we live an indoor life, the kidneys should receive some assistance when needed, as we take less exercise, drink less water and often eat more rich heavy food, thereby forcing the kidneys to do more work than Nature intended. Evidence of kidney trouble, such as lame back, inability to hold urine, smarting or burning, brick-dust or sediment, sallow complexion, rheumatism, may be weak or irregular heart action, warns you that your kidneys require help immediately to avoid more serious trouble.

An herbal medicine containing no minerals or opiates has the most healing influence. An ideal herbal compound that has had most remarkable success as a kidney and bladder remedy is Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root.

You may receive a sample bottle of Swamp-Root by mail, absolutely free. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., and mention the Newark Daily Advertiser.

WATER SHUT OFF FOR SHORT TIME MONDAY EVENING

The packing in a valve in the 16-inch water main leading from the reservoir to the city blew out late Monday afternoon. In order to make repairs it was necessary to shut off the water supply from the reservoir and for an hour and a quarter the city was without water for fire or domestic purposes. The repacking of the valve was a simple operation requiring but a few moments, but the fact that the valve was set in a cistern-like manhole caused the place to quickly fill with water from the leaking valve. It took the water works repair gang an hour to pump the water low enough to make the repairs.

Delinquent water consumers in many parts of town hustled to the water works office early today to square themselves with the department, thinking it was their individual supply which had been cut off. One man hunted up Service Director McCarthy at the scene of the break and promised to be in early Tuesday morning to settle his water bill.

Miss Cecil Taylor spent Saturday and Sunday with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Emanuel Taylor.

NEW DISCOVERY QUICKLY CURES KIDNEY AND BLADDER TROUBLES

Chronic Sufferers Find Relief After Few Doses Are Taken.

If you are bothered with backache or rheumatism, have disagreeable annoying bladder or urinary disorders to contend with—or suffer with any other of the many miseries that come from weak kidneys, here is a guaranteed remedy you can depend upon, no matter what else may have failed to cure you.

It is a positive fact that the new discovery, Croxone, promptly overcomes such diseases. It is the most wonderful remedy ever made for ridding the system of uric acid, removing the cause and curing the troubles. It soaks right in and cleans out the stopped up kidneys and makes them filter and sift out all the poisonous waste matter from the blood. It neutralizes and dissolves the uric

Bowels Get Weak As Age Advances

The First Necessity is to Keep the Bowels Gently Open with a Mild Laxative Tonic.

Healthy old age is no absolutely dependent upon the condition of the bowels that great care should be taken to see that they act regularly. The fact is that as age advances the stomach muscles become weak and inactive and the liver does not store up the juices that are necessary to prompt digestion.

Some help can be obtained by eating easily digested foods and by plenty of exercise, but this latter is irksome to most elderly people. One thing is certain, that a state of constipation should always be avoided as it is dangerous to life and health. The best plan is to take a mild laxative as often as is deemed necessary. But with equal certainty it is suggested that cathartics, purgatives, physics, salts and pills be avoided, as they do but temporary good and are so harsh as to be a shock to a delicate system.

A much better plan and one that thousands of elderly people are following, is to take a gentle laxative- tonic like Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which acts as nearly like nature as is possible. In fact, the tendency of this remedy is to strengthen the stomach and bowel muscles and so train them to act naturally again, when medicines of all kinds can usually be dispensed with. This is the opinion of many people of different ages, among them Mr. O. P. Miller, Baroda, Mich., who writes: "I am 80 years old and have been constipated for many years. Since receiving your sample bottle I have procured two 50c bottles and find that it is the best remedy I ever used and does just what you claim for it to the very letter. I cannot recommend it too highly."

A bottle can be bought of any druggist for 50 cents or one dollar. People usually buy the fifty cent size first, and then, having convinced themselves of its merits they buy the dollar size, which is more economical. Results are guaranteed or money will be refunded. Any elderly person can follow these suggestions with safety and the assurance of good results.

If no member of your family has ever used Syrup Pepsin and you would like to make a personal trial of it before buying it in the regular way of a druggist, send your address—a postal will do—to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 417 Washington street, Monticello, Ill., and a free sample bottle will be mailed you.

Plaintiff Alleges She Has Grown Cold and Unaffectionate. News of the Courts.

By his attorney Eugene Moore, Frank C. Grable has begun suit in the probate court for a divorce from his wife, Emma N. Grable, the petition alleging a marriage in 1894 and the birth of one child, now 16 years of age. For cause of action, the plaintiff alleges gross neglect of duty; that he has been compelled to do his own housework, get his own meals or employ others to do the work. Further, it is alleged that the defendant about June 15, 1907, became enamored of another man, and that without plaintiff's knowledge, she has entertained him at their home, visited him at his office in Pataskala, and frequently met him in the city of Columbus, and that she has become cold and unaffectionate toward said plaintiff.

Common Pleas Court. In the case of Patrick J. Walsh vs. Oscar K. Taylor et al., a suit brought to recover compensation for work and labor in constructing a cement wall and ditching work, after the court and jury had listened to a portion of the testimony, the parties got together and adjusted the matter amicably without further trial proceedings.

On Tuesday morning the court took up the trial of the case of Thomas H. Vermillion vs. Thomas W. Read, administrator. The defendant says that plaintiff purchased a cow from the estate and has failed to pay for the same and defendant claims that plaintiff should receive the balance of his distributive share of the estate, less the amount of the purchase price of the cow, $12.50. Plaintiff claims that he paid for the cow, and denies the claim of the defendant administrator.

To Argue Case. Attorney J. A. Flory went to Columbus today, where he will appear before the United States circuit court to argue against a motion for a new trial filed by A. H. Heisey & Co. in the case of Alice Morris against that company, which was recently decided in favor of the plaintiff, who was given a verdict of over $800 against the defendant company.

The action was brought to recover for injury resulting from the lack of a guard over a belt pulley.

Divorce Case. The divorce case of Della Shafer vs. H. P. D. Shafer is occupying the attention of Probate Judge Hunter today. The appearances are A. S. Mitchell of Newark and A. J. Andrews of Zanesville; Smythe & Smythe for the defendant.

Argue Alimony Claim. The matter of the payment of alimony pendente lite by plaintiff to defendant in the divorce case of E. R. Carter vs. Ella Carter was argued by J. V. Hilliard, attorney for defendant, before Judge Robbins Hunter this afternoon. It is claimed that $20 remains unpaid.

BE HEALTHY, HAPPY, VIGOROUS

Trembling, Nervous Prostration and That Tired Feeling Vanish After a Treatment of Ambition Pills.

Every run down, weakened, tired out, nervous person in Newark is invited to go to Evans' Drug Store this very day and get a box of WENDELL'S AMBITION PILLS with the distinct understanding that money will be returned if dissatisfied. Over indulgence in alcohol or tobacco; over-eating or excesses of any kind mean straining nerves. Don't delay! WENDELL'S AMBITION PILLS have only recently been offered to the public, but thousands have regained vigor, ambition and energy by the use of one box.

Get busy and take them for any nervous trouble, weakness, headaches, hysteria, neuralgia, exhausted vitality, sleeplessness, kidney, liver or stomach ailments, and for constipation. They will make anyone feel fine, happy and vigorous in a few days.

Ninety-three United States cities now have automobile fire apparatus.

Thursday.
Enjoying Holiday.
It is the custom of the W. H.
Nayer & Co., after invoicing, to give their girls one day as a holiday for their extra help. They began this usual custom this morning and the following are enjoying the day:
Misses Mary Moore, Myrtle Phillips,
Anna Holt, Irene Allison, Anna Hin-ger and John Holt.
Resigns Position.
Mr. E. A. Neff has resigned as general manager of the Hall-Finze company. Mr. Neff has made many new friends in this city, who are loath to see him leave, as he is always doing as soon as he can close his work. Mr. H. H. Baird, formerly secretary and treasurer, has been advanced to fill the position made vacant by the resignation.

BREAKS A COLD
IN A FEW HOURS
First Dose of Paper's Cold Compound
Relieves all Grippe Misery—
Contains no Quinine
After the very first dose of "Paper's Cold Compound" you distinctly feel the cold breaking and all the disagreeable grippe symptoms leaving.
It is a positive fact that a dose of Paper's Cold Compound taken every two hours until three consecutive doses are taken will cure Grippe or break up the most severe cold, either in the head, chest, back, stomach or limbs.
It promptly ends the most miserable headache, dullness, head and nose stuffed up, feverishness, sneezing, sore throat, running of the nose, mucous catarrhal discharges, sore-ness, stiffness and rheumatic twinges.
Take this wonderful Compound with the knowledge that there is nothing else in the world which will cure your cold or end Grippe misery as promptly and without any other assistance or bad after-effects as a 25 cent package of Paper's Cold Com-

Finished Invoice.
Today closes the invoicing for the past year at the J. J. Carroll store.
All the clerks worked until a late hour last evening in order to close the work today. This has been a very successful year for Mr. Carroll.
Carnation Day.
Tomorrow, Jan. 29, is the birthday anniversary of the late President William McKinley. As has been the custom over the country since the president's death, many Newark people will wear his favorite flower, the carnation.
Car Load of Autos.

Temperature Rises.
With the rise in temperature on Tuesday came a light fall of snow about noon, which melted as fast as it fell. Tuesday morning the new thermometer registered 30 degrees and by afternoon it was four degrees warmer. The snowfall fulfilled the prediction of the weather man, who went further and said that Wednesday would be fair.

DO YOU KNOW THESE THINGS, GENTLE READER?
The Ohio Society for the Prevention of Tuberculosis has issued the following brief bulletin, which is worthy of your attention:
Do you know that one death out of every 10 in Ohio is due to tuberculosis?
Do you know that tuberculosis can be prevented?
Do you know that tuberculosis is due to a germ that can be destroyed?
Do you know that the germs causing tuberculosis are communicable?
Do you know that the germs of tuberculosis are killed by sunlight and fresh air?
Do you know that the germ of tuberculosis thrives in darkness and filth?
Do you know that it is a common occurrence for persons to have tuberculosis and not know it?
Do you know that tuberculosis is curable in a large percentage of cases if taken early?
Do you know that if you don't know these things and want to find out more about them, you can do so by writing the State Tuberculosis Society, Columbus.
Tips are not the only things in the world that are won by waiting.

VISITING NURSE
CIVIC AWAKENER
Miss Margaret Kamerer Demonstrates Plan Is Feasible.
ASK ONE IN EACH COUNTY
Ohio Society For Prevention of Tuberculosis, Which Employed First Nurse to Visit Smaller Ohio Cities,
Will Ask Legislature to Provide Visitor in Each County to Carry On the Work.
Interesting experiences are recorded by Miss Margaret Kamerer of Cleveland, the first district nurse employed in the campaign of intensive education on health matters inaugurated by the Ohio Society for the Prevention of Tuberculosis, in a report to the society covering the first six months work.
The report is of particular interest at this time, as the Anti-Tuberculosis society and other similar organizations are advocating the passage of a bill to employ district nurses in every county in the state, to visit all cases of tuberculosis.
At present employment of such nurses, with the exception of Miss Kamerer, is confined to a few of the large cities of the state. It is believed that the work accomplished by her has proven so effective that the advisability of extending the work to the smaller counties has been established beyond all doubt.
Awakens the Conscience.
Miss Kamerer spent a month in each of the following cities: Circleville, Painesville, Sandusky, Urbana, Bowling Green and Conneaut. She is now engaged in similar work in other cities.
Miss Kamerer was employed, primarily, to awaken the public conscience in the cities which she visited.
It was, and is, her task to point out to the contented and comfortable townspeople living in the big houses on the wide streets that even in the smallest cities there are the hovels where filth and disease and overcrowding rage as wantonly as in the large cities.
Her month in each city is spent organizing the public officials, the ministers, physicians and teachers, and in enlisting the support of the local newspapers. She then gets busy and makes a general survey of the city, studying the character of the citizens,
the conditions under which the factory workers labor, whether the streets and alleys are kept clean; the water supply and the sewerage system—every condition, in fact, which influences the general health of the people. In one city, for instance, she found that 150 pigs were kept within the city limits.
Points Out Bad Spots.
In the meantime she has been enlisting the support of influential citizens. When she is thoroughly familiar with local conditions, and has definitely determined the bad spots, a public meeting is called. There she points out the unhealthy conditions and suggests a remedy.
In every city she visited her suggestions have borne definite fruit. In Circleville, for instance, a permanent nurse was secured to take up the work where she left off. In Bowling Green a "Health League" was organized, and in the other cities similar steps have been taken.
In addition to this Miss Kamerer in each city visited from 100 to 200 homes in which there was sickness—typhoid, pneumonia, tuberculosis and other diseases. She made expert suggestions that were uniformly helpful.
A bill to extend the work of district nurses will be the support of almost all philanthropic societies. It is a bill of social service which offers great opportunities in Ohio.

What 50,000 Visitors Learned About the "57"

FIFTY THOUSAND visitors in 1912 inspected Heinz Model Pure Food Kitchens.

Fifty thousand people saw the materials—the choice, clean fruits and vegetables—as they are received.

Fifty thousand people approved Heinz mode of inspection and rejection which singles out and retains only the fresh, pure and wholesome. They followed every process, noted the spotless workmen, the sanitary utensils, the snow-white tables, the clean uniformed work-people.

Fifty thousand people carried away a clear impression—a vivid, first-hand knowledge—of the purity and quality of Heinz 57 Varieties. They came from every state and nation. Among them were food scientists—members of pure food organizations, domestic science experts—and housewives, who found in the scrupulous cleanliness of Heinz Kitchens the reflection of their own kitchens at home.

And every visitor learned why it is that Heinz Foods keep their delicious freshness and natural flavor without the aid—or the need—of any chemical preservative.

Pure materials—clean methods. That's the answer.

But while 50,000 learned of the quality of Heinz products last year by seeing them made, millions learned the same thing by actual use. Learned their incomparable flavor—the purity that tells in the taste.

Heinz 57 Varieties Pure Foods and Condiments

Particular housewives are growing more particular every year in their choice of foods. The more particular they are the greater is the demand for Heinz foods of known purity and unequalled flavor.

Madam, it pays to insist—insist strongly—on getting genuine Heinz Pure Foods. A product by any other name is not the same.

Here are a few of the 57 Varieties. The rest are just as delicious:

HEINZ BAKED BEANS. Really oven-baked, not boiled or steamed. All labeled "Baked." The Government prohibits the use of the word "Baked" on beans that are not baked. Four kinds—baked with and without tomato sauce.

HEINZ TOMATO KETCHUP. Red-ripe selected tomatoes prepared without Benzoate of Soda or other chemical preservative. Unequaled as an appetizer.

HEINZ PICKLES—Sweet and Sour—the high reputation of Heinz preserving has been largely built on these peerless products.

HEINZ PURE VINEGAR—that made Heinz Pickles famous.

HEINZ CHILI SAUCE—too good for words to describe.

HEINZ FRUIT PRESERVES AND JELLIES—with all the goodness of "home-put-up."

HEINZ PREPARED SOUPS, ETC., ETC.

Your grocer is authorized to refund full purchase price if any of these products prove unsatisfactory.

THE HUMAN PROCESSION

By O. Terrence.

"SAFETY FIRST" IS SLOGAN OF DANIEL WILLARD, 62 TODAY.

From a lowly position in the railroad service to the leadership of two great systems, with over 5,000 miles of track, epitomizes the career of Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore and Ohio and Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton lines. President Willard is a Vermonter by birth, and will celebrate today the sixty-second anniversary of his first appearance at Hartland, Vt. He was educated at Windsor, in the Green Mountain State, and at eighteen began his railroad career. For twenty years he worked on various roads, in many capacities, before his ability won substantial reward. In 1892 the Baltimore & Ohio powers began to observe Mr. Willard's capacity for hard work and exceptional executive powers, and appointed him assistant general manager. In 1901 he went to the Erie, first as assistant to the president, then as third vice-president and first vice-president. His next service was with the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy, as second vice-president. Four years ago he became president of the Colorado Midland and vice-president of the Colorado & Southern. In January, 1910, he returned to Baltimore as president of the great Baltimore & Ohio system.

"Safety first" is the Willard railroad slogan, and it is his ambition to make his road the safest in America. When he assumed the presidency of the B. & O. three years ago this month, Mr. Willard inaugurated a gigantic scheme of improvements which have just been completed. The building of a third track across the Allegheny mountains, the purchase of much new equipment and a general enlargement of facilities, at a total cost of sixty million dollars, are numbered among the achievements of the man from Vermont. A mountain tunnel costing $1,250,000, constructed in record time, was opened last month.

As president of the Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton, Mr. Willard, with fifteen other officials and directors and two trainmen, were indicted for involuntary manslaughter by an Indianapolis grand jury last month. The employment of incompetent men, it was alleged, was the cause of the wreck in which sixteen persons were killed. Perhaps as a result of this charge, President Willard, always an advocate of careful railroadizing, sounded his "safety first" slogan, which has been taken up by railroads all over the continent. In a New Year's greeting to employees, President Willard said:

"During the year just begun keep constantly in mind that the most important policy of the company is clearly expressed in the words 'Safety first.' I wish to remind each one in the service that he owes to himself, his family, to his fellow employees, and to the public, the duty of doing at all times all that he reasonably can to make his employment and the system's trains as safe as possible. If this thought be kept in mind by each employee and is permitted to exert as it should, a constant and controlling influence over his actions, it is certain to result in greater happiness and greater prosperity for us all."

With all of which the public will concur—even though "the public" is placed last among those to whom trainmen owe a duty. The public should be duly thankful that it is mentioned at all, for too often it has been left out of the consideration by railway officials and workmen.

* FIRST THINGS *

PANAMA RAILROAD.

The first train passed over the Panama railroad 55 years ago today, and since then this shortest of the American "transcontinental" routes has played an important part in the commercial traffic between North and South America, and between ports on the Atlantic and Pacific oceans. With the opening of the Panama canal it will have outlined its usefulness. The railway line starts at Colon, reaches the valley of the Chagres at Gatun, runs along its northern banks to Barro Colorado, crosses the river by a large bridge, continues along the southern bank and up the tributary Obispo to Colón, from which it descends straight to Panama. The canal follows very much the same route, and the railroad has been of immense value to the United States government in its construction work. The total length of the road is 47 miles. Of merchandise hauled over this railway in recent years, over two-thirds moved from the Atlantic to the Pacific, and of this about a third was destined for the western ports of the United States, the other two-thirds going to other countries along the Pacific Coast of North and South America, Ecuador, Peru and Salvador leading. The east-bound merchandise passing over the railway originates principally at San Francisco, and is destined for New York. The railroad company operates a line of steamers to New York and various other companies own steamers to the Atlantic and Pacific ports of the railway.

FARMERS' WEEK AT COLUMBUS

A Farmers' and Home Makers' Week will be held at the Ohio State University, February 3 to 7, under the direction of the College of Agriculture. SMALLPOX VICTIM IN OHIO VILLAGE

Coshocton, Jan. 20.—Suffering with smallpox, James Tripp, 20, of Canal Lewisville visited the stores of the village last Saturday night and as a result the larger portion of the male population of that place have been exposed to the disease.

Tripp, at the time, was not aware of the fact that he had smallpox. Saturday evening while buying supplies at the stores he became despondently ill and it was found that he was suffering from a very advanced stage of smallpox.

A rumor to the effect that the whole village would probably be put under quarantine is fairly believed.

LITTLE BENNY'S NOTE BOOK

NEWARK MILLINERS. TAKE NOTICE.

Ma went down town to buy a noo hat today and I went with her, the lady in the stoar saying, Is there eny pertickler kind of hat that you want- id, Mrs. Potts.

Yes sed ma, I wunt sumthing that fits pritty kloze, and yet spreads out a littel, sumthing verry plane but kwite distinctivve, sumthing not kwite like enything I've evir seen.

Ickxly, sed the lady, I bleeve I've the verry hat you wunt.

And ma sat down awn a chare in frunt of a big looking glass and the lady startid to put hats awn her hed, beeing awl kinds of hats and awl kinds of kullers, sum having funy shapes and sum not having eny shapes, sum going ovir ma's eyebrows and sum going ovir both eers and sum jest going ovir wun eer.

I deeklare to goodness I dont no wich wun I like, sed ma aftir the lady had put about 20 hats awn her hed, Benny, wich wun do you like.

I dont no, I sed, Wich I didnt, the first, 5 looking awl rite and e'ch one aftir that looking funnyier than the uthir wun.

Heers wun of the verry latest, sed the lady, putting a littil hat with a fether in it awn the back of mas hed, making her look like sumbody in a jerrade.

Marvelously bekuming, sed the lady, and ma sed, I reely dont no.

Heers sumbunng noo and stish.

Few men know what not to say, and still fewer when not to say it.

An ounce of today is worth a pound of tomorrow.

sed the lady, pushing a hat awn mas faze so big you mite think ma didnt have eny top to her faze.

Let me try that bloo wun agen, sed ma, and the lady put awn a bloo wun that caim down over mas noze saying, Exkwisit, Exkwisit.

Now let me try the red wun agen, sed ma, and the lady put awn a red wun that caim down so far in frunt it looked like a fatts faze, saying, I dont think Ill take eny, I hate the sight of the bloo wun.

Im undecided between the bloo wun and the red wun, sed ma, Ill tell you wat Ill do, Ill go and finish the rest of my shopping and by that time Ill have maid up my mind.

And we went to sum uthir stoars, ma saying evvry little wile, Benny, wich do you think, the bloo wun or the red wun, and me saying, I dont no, awn akkount of not wunting poe to blame it awn me wen we got hoam.

Aftir a wile ma sed, Its the bloo wun, Im posetive now, Ill get the bloo wun, I dont think the red wun wood bekum me at awl, And we went bak to the stoar and the lady sed, Wat do you think, wun of the uthir gerls went and sold that red wun, not noing I was rezerving it.

Wat sed ma, sold the red wun, thats the verry wun I was kuming bak for, izent that to bad, now I dont think Ill take eny, I hate the site of the bloo wun.

But she troyd awn about 15 mear, buying a brown wun that looked krooked in frunt and strate in back.

FOOLISHLY ESCAPES FROM REFORMATORY

Mansfield, Jan. 20.—Although he had only 21 more days to serve at the Ohio State reformatory before he would be released on parole, Jacob Rosek, serving an indeterminate sentence for conviction for manslaughter in the Muskingum county courts, made his getaway from the reformatory farm Saturday afternoon. What his object could have been in escaping at such a time is a puzzle to the officials, as he had everything to lose by doing so.

It is estimated that there is one automobile for every 110 persons in the United States.

BREATHE FREELY! OPEN NOSTRILS AND STUFFED HEAD--END CATARRH

Instant Relief When Nose and Head Are Clogged From a Cold, Stays Nasty Catarrhal Discharges, Dull Headache Vanishes

"Try 'Ely's Cream Balm'." Get a small bottle anyway, just to try it. Apply a little in the nostrils and instantly your clogged nose and stopped up air passages of the head, when open, you will breathe freely; dizziness and headache disappear. In morning the catarrh, cold in head or catarrhal sore throat will be gone.

End such misery now! Get barefoot and such misery now! Get the small bottle of "Ely's Cream Balm" at any drug store. This sweet, tra-square, grant balm dissolves by the heat of the nostrils; penetrates and heals the inflamed, swollen membrane which clogs the nose, head and throat; clears the air passages; stops nasty discharges and a feeling of cleansing, soothing relief comes immediately.

Don't lay awake tonight struggling for breath, with head stuffed; nostrils closed, hawking and blowing. Catarrh or a cold, with it's running nose, foul mucous dropping from the throat, and raw dryness is distressing but truly needless.

Put your faith—just once—in "Ely's Cream Balm" and your cold or catarrh will surely disappear. Hall's Drug Store, 10 North Side

Facts in Nature

FOR centuries it has been known that Nature's most valuable health giving agents for the cure of disease are found in our American forests. Over forty years ago Dr. R. V. Pierce, chief consulting physician to the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute at Buffalo, N.Y., used the powdered extracts as well as the liquid extracts of native medicinal plants, such as Bloodroot and Queen's root, Golden Seal and Stone root, Cherry bark and Mandrake, for the cure of blood diseases. This prescription as put up in liquid form was called

ON SECOND THOUGHT.

When a man reaches the age of 30, he is no longer a young man. But the old man is not on with which his personal appearance is not in the best of health.

Early physical care is one of the most important factors in the life of a man. It is the foundation upon which the structure of a healthy body is built.

Most of those to whom physical care is given are given the wrong kind of care. They are given the wrong kind of food, the wrong kind of exercise, and the wrong kind of rest.

After all, there is nothing more important than the health of the body. It is the foundation upon which the structure of a healthy body is built.

Any man who is in poor health is in poor luck. He is in poor luck because he is in poor health. He is in poor health because he is in poor luck.

One man in a hundred is in poor health. One man in a hundred is in poor luck. One man in a hundred is in poor health.

CUBANS HONOR MEMORY OF MARTI, APOSTLE OF LIBERTY, TODAY.

Holiday-loving Cubans will today honor the memory of Jose Marti, apostle of liberty and intrepid fighter in the cause of "Cuba Libre." Today is also the fourth anniversary of the reestablishment of the republic, as it was on January 28, 1909, that the provisional government, established by Uncle Sam, came to an end, and the new Cuban government, with Jose Manuel Gomez as president, was installed.

Jose Marti, whose name and fame the patriotic Cubans commemorate on each twenty-eighth of January, was the instigator of the rebellion which eventually resulted in the throwing off of the Spanish yoke. Following the "ten years' war," which began in 1895, most of the leaders in the "Cuba Libre" movement were sent into exile. One was Jose Marti, and he, too, was eventually sent into exile. He was the only one who was not sent into exile. He was the only one who was not sent into exile.

Since the end of the American intervention four years ago today, Cuba has been comparatively peaceful. There have been no rebellions, and no talk of intervention by the United States, and charges of graft and extravagance and inefficiency have been made against the Gomez government. That the people were dissatisfied with the regime now closing was made evident in the November election, when the Conservative Menocal was chosen as the successor of Gomez. Some investigators allege that there has been a great deal of exaggeration of Cuba's difficulties and intimacies that false reports have been circulated by those who would profit by United States intervention. The new president will begin his administration with the confidence of the great majority of Cubans, who believe that in the next four years he will bring to realization the dreams of Marti, the martyr.

CLEANS THE HAIR AND MAKES IT BEAUTIFUL--25 CENT "DANDERINE"

In a few moments your hair looks soft, fluffy, lustrous and abundant—No falling hair or dandruff.

Surely try a "Danderine Hair Cleanse" if you wish to immediately double the beauty of your hair. Just moisten a cloth with Danderine and draw it carefully through your hair, taking one small strand at a time, this will cleanse the hair of dust, dirt or any excessive oil—in a few moments you will be amazed. Your hair will be wavy, fluffy and abundant and possess an incomparable softness, lustre and luxuriance, the beauty and shimmer of true hair health.

Besides beautifying the hair, one application of Danderine dissolves every particle of Dandruff, cleanses, purifies and invigorates the scalp, forever stopping itching and falling hair.

Danderine is to the hair what fresh showers of rain and sunshine are to vegetation. It goes right to the roots, invigorates and strengthens them. Its exhilarating, stimulating and life-producing properties cause the hair to grow abundantly long, strong and beautiful.

You can surely have pretty, soft, lustrous hair, and lots of it, if you will just get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter and try it as directed.

BOXERS HAD LIVELY BATTLE AT SPRINGFIELD, O.

Springfield fight fans saw a real battle in that city Monday night, when Tommy Connors of Scranton, Pa., and Glen Coakley of Ft. Wayne, went the full 20 rounds of the scheduled bout. Coakley took the place of Jack Dillon of Indianapolis, who was unable to participate in the exhibition because of a broken hand sustained last week in a bout.

Coakley gave Connors an awful punishment during the early rounds of the mill. In the twelfth he had Connors helpless and the Scranton man's arms dropped to his side, he being no longer able to defend himself. Coakley drew back to land a sleep producer, when the gong rang, ending the round.

Connors was able to come back in the thirteenth and gained strength in each succeeding round. In the seventeenth he landed on Coakley's nose, breaking the bone and causing a flow of blood. In each of the succeeding rounds he heaped the same punishment on Coakley that Connors himself had suffered in the earlier part of the fight. Coakley managed to withstand the punishment, however, until the gong at the end of the 20th put an end to the bout. Both boxers were badly used up and their faces were badly bruised. The fight fans pronounce it one of the best ever seen in Ohio.

Mr. Wilbur Hogan of White & Meier's cafe, attended the exhibition. Mr. Gene Schlegel started for Springfield, but when he arrived in Columbus he was informed that Dillon would not appear at the ringside and remained in the Capital City to witness "The Round Up" at the Hartman theatre.

NAVY GOATS ET AL. TO BE RE-ENLISTED

Norfolk, Va.—The goats, monkeys, cats, dogs, parrots and other pets aboard Uncle Sam's fighting ships at the Norfolk navy yard, which were banished a few days ago when, report said, Rear Admiral R. M. Doyle was butted by a goat on the quarterdeck of the battleship New Hampshire, will be restored to the jockies, and there is joy in the fleet again.

Assistant Secretary Winthrop of the navy department took their banishment seriously enough to investigate it and let it be known that the department did not approve their summary removal.

Admiral Doyle indignantly denied that the goat had butted him and announced that he had ordered the removal of the pets because medical officers thought they might have something to do with cerebrospinal meningitis and measles at the marine barracks.

The admiral further announced that when the danger of infection was passed the mascots would be permitted to return.

Mustard's Quick Relief Without the Blister!

You remember the good old-fashioned mustard plaster.

Your mother and your grandmother used to apply it whenever you had a cold, an ache or a pain.

It burned like sixty, but it surely did the work.

Here is the old family remedy greatly improved by science and put up in Twentieth Century form.

The quick and blessed relief without the blister of the mustard, or the bother and messiness of the plaster.

MUSTEROLE is a clean, white ointment, made with the oil of mustard. For MUSTEROLE, the oil of the highest grade mustard is refined until it is as pure as human skill can make it.

You simply rub it on the spot where the pain is—rub it on briskly—and the pain is gone.

Not a blister is left even on tender skin! Instead it has a delicious, comforting effect.

You don't have to spread MUSTEROLE.

APPROPRIATIONS TO BE DELAYED

Many Bills in House Must Go to Extra Session.

JIM MANN DELAYS ACTION.

Because Opponents Held Up Lincoln Bill For Minority Leader Holds Up Other Measures—Right of Appointment Comes Up—Democrats Need Many Offices.

By ARTHUR W. DUNN.

Washington, Jan. 28.—[Special.]—No one can tell just what appropriation bills will fail to pass this session, but it has become evident that quite a number must go over to the extra session. The house moved very slowly in the early part of the session. Then there was an inclination to string out the discussion on various measures, and finally Minority Leader Mann decided to show the majority what kind of a filibuster he could enforce if there was a disposition to filibuster against something he wanted.

It happened that the opponents of the Lincoln memorial and those who wanted to build a great highway to Gettysburg, denounced by Senator Root and others as a big real estate speculation scheme, held up the Lincoln bill, which Mann wanted, and he took his revenge by holding up other business. He easily demonstrated that it is not a difficult matter to tie up the congress at the short session.

Right of Appointment.

The contest over the appointments made by President Taft and held up so that Woodrow Wilson may make the selections when he comes into office has brought forth the question whether it would not be well to have all presidential commissions in civil life expire within six months after a new president came into office so as to give him the opportunity to name all his subordinates. Even Republicans say that it does not seem more than the fair thing that a president should select the men who will be a part of his administration.

It is apparent that the Democrats will need every office they can get, and then they will be several millions short of enough to supply the demands made upon them.

Bates' Little Joke.

"That from and after the approval of this resolution the publication of the Congressional Record shall be discontinued," reads a resolution introduced by Congressman Bates of Pennsylvania. Bates is to retire from congress, his term ending March 4. But he wanted to give his fellow members a little laugh before he left, and this was the way he did it.

Discontinue the Record! Why, they might just as well try to discontinue congress! What would become of all the language uttered in both houses? Where would the "leave to print" speeches land? And how could those members who are constantly talking in both houses get an opportunity to read their "favorite authors"? It is a good thing that Bates was only joking.

Civil Service Stands.

Although there had been a deal of talk in the house about knocking out President Taft's order putting a lot of fourth class postmasters under the civil service, the Democrats didn't have the courage of their convictions to vote that way. In fact, upon another civil service test they did not go on record as willing to open the government to the spoils system. And Governor Wilson seems to have clinched the merit system by his statements on the subject. His administration may be as much for civil service as Cleveland's.

Helm's Comparison.

During a house debate it was suggested that there was no necessity for fortifying the Panama canal, with which Congressman Helm of Kentucky took issue. Among other things he said: "It would be just as wise to leave the Panama canal unfortified and expect to retain possession and control of it as it would be to put a coop of chickens in a negro settlement overnight without lock on the coop and expect to find chickens in that coop the next morning."

A Dangerous Place.

Congress will hesitate a long time before it grants the use of the capitol for a presidential reception on the day of the inauguration. The building is the worst place in Washington for a big crowd on account of the stairways and the doors. No one can tell what might happen with the crowd which would try to get in and see the new president.

Other Countries Will Benefit?

It has been the claim of those who oppose the immigration bill that it will result in sending thousands of immigrants that would come to this country to Canada, Brazil, Argentina, Mexico and South American countries generally. They assert these other countries would get the benefit of all the immigration which would be shut out of the United States. Perhaps that is what those who are favoring the bill want. Many of them think we have enough foreign population in this country at the present time and that restrictions might go even further than in the pending measure.

OPINIONS

RENDERED BY COUNTY PROSECUTOR IN SEVERAL MATTERS OF IMPORTANCE

For Township Trustees to Employ One of Own Number as Health Officer Would Be Criminal.

Prosecutor J. Howard Jones has written and sent official opinions in answer to questions submitted to him of great importance to the several communities, and involving considerable legal difficulty and giving scope for different opinions especially in the lay minds of those who submitted the questions.

The opinions follow:

The Trustees of Madison Township:

Dear Sirs: Replying to your request for information as to whether you can employ one of your members as health officer, I answer no and would say further that to do so would be criminal.

Secondly, I am asked whether you can employ a health officer and pay him for what he does. I also answer "no" to this. No certificate of money in the fund can be made unless the amount of expenditure is definite and certain.

Respectfully yours,

J. HOWARD JONES,

Prosecuting Attorney.

Mr. Henry Geiger, Kirkersville, O.

Dear Sir: I beg leave to inform you that I am in receipt of an opinion from the Attorney-General in relation to the matters submitted by you to me last week.

I would say that I am advised by him that, in the first place, no election for the school directors of Kerkersville Village District will take place until the fall election of this year, at which time persons ought to be nominated for School Directors in said village.

Secondly, that pending the election of the School Board for Kerkersville Village, the schools should continue to be conducted as they are now, under the control and direction and at the expense of the Township Board and, further, that pending said election, you and the other gentleman, who, as a member of said School Board, lives in Kerkersville village, should continue to serve as members.

Third, that when a Village School District at Kerkersville is properly organized, it will automatically come into possession of and take title to the school property located within said School District and will lose all title that it has at present as a part of the Township School District property located elsewhere.

In regard to the last proposition, I should judge that there is a likelihood of a severe law suit if anybody sees fit to disagree with the attorney general, but it is my duty to be guided by his advice in this matter and it is your duty to be guided by mine.

Very sincerely yours,

J. HOWARD JONES,

Prosecuting Attorney.

PLOWING THE WORLD.

Touring Now Passe—Try This if You Would Be Up to Date.

Red Bluff, Cal.—Plowing their way around the world is the unique way of touring this sphere adopted by Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Smith, formerly of the Imperial valley, who are traveling with an outfit consisting of cook and bunk wagons, two traction engines and gang plows with a capacity of turning over 100 acres of ground in twenty-four hours.

Since beginning their journey they have traveled by easy stages, securing in each agricultural community through which they passed contracts for plowing and then, when these were completed, moving on to another section.

The Value of Knowledge.

Mrs. Featherston had embroidered a gown for herself. Butterflies were the design, and she had made them look so natural that—so Mr. Featherston said—one would think they were actually alive. But Mrs. Featherston's little son was more critical. He regarded the decorative insects long and earnestly, opened his lips to speak and then, with remarkable self control for one so young, closed them again without speaking.

"Well, Frankie," said his mother at last, "tell me what you think of my butterflies."

"They are very nice, mother," replied he seriously, "but the next time you embroider butterflies would you mind putting the antennae on the other end?"—New York Press.

The brightest day for every girl and every woman is the day when she looks well, feels well and is well. For every woman who does not enjoy these bright days of good health there is this cheering news. Your aching back, the dizziness, languor and weakness that leaves you trembling and breathless after any exertion, those attacks of faintness and headaches that make everything blurred, can be banished just as soon as you make up your mind to build up your blood with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. They are the blood builder every pale, bloodless, sick woman should take. Women who have tried them value them above all other medicines. They know that they make the pure, red blood that brings freedom from pain and weakness, color to the cheeks, brightness to the eyes and a healthy appetite.

Every woman should know that she must have good, pure blood if she is to be strong and healthy. The pale, sickly girl, who does not grow strong, has no appetite, and has to stay out of school, suffers from lack of blood. The mother who breaks down and becomes nervous under the worry and hard work of bringing up her family, needs good blood. The woman who is easily tired out and looks old before her time, has poor blood. To all of these women Dr. Williams' Pink Pills will give new, rich blood and prompt relief. They will build up the strength, tone up the stomach and nerves and give robust health. A booklet, "Pain Talks to Women," will be sent free upon request of any woman. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists at 50 cents per box or six boxes for $2.50, or direct by mail, postpaid, by the

A GOOD BREAKFAST.

Some Persons Never Know What It Means.

A good breakfast, a good appetite and good digestion mean everything to the man, woman or child who has anything to do, and wants to get a good start toward doing it.

A Southern man tells of his wife's "good breakfast" and also supper, made out of Grape-Nuts and cream.

He says:

"I should like to tell you how much good Grape-Nuts has done my wife. After being in poor health for the last 18 years, during part of the time scarcely anything would stay on her stomach long enough to nourish her, finally at the suggestion of a friend she tried Grape-Nuts.

"Now, after about four weeks on this delicious and nutritious food, she has picked up most wonderfully and seems as well as anyone can be."

"Every morning she makes a good breakfast on Grape-Nuts eaten just as it comes from the package with cream or milk added; and then again the same at supper, and the change in her is wonderful."

"We can't speak too highly of Grape-Nuts as a food after our remarkable experience." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.—Read the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs. "There's a Reason."
